MINISTER AND DESPERADO ALIKE.

NEW YORK TIMES.

BONNERON, S. DAN, Aug. 10— Whelby, to Lynch or not?—Perry, John L. alias "Mugwump," Feb., "Alice of the Wild West" seems to be the question now agitating the residents of this (country) county.

For four years the Rev. Mr. Higard was a minister in the cause of the atheist evangelist in this part of South Dakota. When Francis Nelson, 16 years old, succeeded in swallowing a hot-pit meal, he was thought to be the victim of the X-ray. Even so, he was still alive, though his eyes and induced no physical discomforts or sufferings that were discernible. In fact, the baby did not even cry. The mother, who had been looking for other baby feedings, was told that the infant had been born dead. The boy had remained developmentally until he had brought the infant stomach and heart to the physician, who had performed the post-mortem examination.

The child was the daughter of O. Nelson, a business man of Beloit, Wis., and was taken to Chicago a few days ago by Mrs. Nelson. Only one-half of the body of a managed was given to her by the physician, and her theory that Francis had the hot-pit meal in his stomach. The doctors whom she consulted told her it was impossible that the boy had been born dead, and that the long hot-pit beyond the power of vision.

Her mother's instinct, however, told her that Francis had been born dead, and she had the boy sent to a physician and had him examined with the blood of normal men of her sex. The physician gave her the name of the California Syrup of Figs as the exclusive of its remedy. It is far in excess of all other tonics, as it is a true blood purifier, removing blemishes without irritating or causing them, and it does not grip nor tear the intestines to get its beneficial effects; please remember the name of the Company.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 17.

And now, so far as Spain is concerned, let us try to forget the Maine.

For sale or lease - a choice lot of islands. For terms and particulars, apply to Uude Sam, United States.

Is the successful student of life who is continually finding out that the more he knows, the more he has yet to learn.

All honor to the American soldier, to whom at last must come the credit for victory and peace. His bravery, execution and matchless personal worth.

The war thus far has actually cost about one hundred million dollars. Pretty good price for a little over a hundred days' fun. The expense will still go on and it will be months before accurate figures can be fully obtained.

The name of one of the ships which was to carry soldiers to Porto Rico waters, but was intercepted by orders from headquarters, was Obdan, and it is said it expressed the feelings of almost all the soldiers who were destined to march up the gun-palms and then march straight down again.

The President is having trouble making up his mind. Politically, he is a thoroughly Democratic, though personally Democratic, fighting shy of it. The Philippines question is the one prominent feature. Men do not want to commit themselves upon a question so intricate and which may become a party issue.

Mr. CHARLEY MEACHAN has concluded to suspend the publication of the Hopkinsville Daily Kentuckyian, for the principal reason, he says, that it is not in a position to meet the business that is less confusing and laborious. We are sorry that his people did not give him the encouragement which he deserved.

Mr. S. J. SHACKELFORD will take charge of the office of Clerk of the Court of Appeals on the first Monday in September. His term will last four years and eight months. His salary will be $4,000 a year, and he is allowed $7,000 additional to pay his deputies, etc. Mr. Shackelford's chief deputy will be R. E. Green, the present chief deputy of the Clerk of the Court of Appeals, who is retained on account of faithful and efficient duties. Mr. Green was Shackelford's principal opponent for the nomination. Mr. Gus W. Richardson, of Meade county, and Mr. W. T. Hayes, of Mt. Sterling, will also be deputies. Quite a wrangle was precipitated by Shackelford promising his chief deputy to two men, but the master has been amicably straightened out.

COL. JOHN JACOB ASTOR, one of New York's richest men, will soon be a candidate for Congress on the Republican ticket. One year ago he would not have stood a shadow of a chance as a candidate, as he would have been opposed as being an aristocrat and money king and too proud to mix with common people. These things might as well be charged against him now, but in the meantime the war has come up, which puts a new phase on the matter. Col. Astor was one of the first men of his district to enlist in the army and one of the very first of the young millionaires of New York to prove that he was a true American. For though he was a common soldier, he had hard-luck and bacon and was in the midst of the fiercest fighting. Now he has a new claim upon his constituency and it is thought they will not be slow to recognize it.

Spain's treasury is suffering from the degradations of her officials and others associated with the suspension of her national affairs in this war. The United States will perhaps not be without complaint of this kind when affairs are straightened out and the truth becomes known. But the rascality will be so covered up by the political party now in power that it will be hard of detection. This country has been put to many thousands of dollars of unnecessary expense merely to gratify the whim or the pocket-book of some political favorite, and the public just saw the chicanery and took advantage of it. This is a grand and rich country and easily recovers from the effects of this war, but the finger-prints of some of her most bold-mouthed patriots will remain around the key-hole of her treasury door for many months to come.

It is said that the knavery of Spanish army officials is just now being unearthed in great chunks. Instead of using money levied for war purposes in the rightful way, they have appropriated it for their own benefit, and several of them will come out of this little scrap with America much richer men. Roy, the nation of Spain, is rotten to the core. The official is a scoundrel and mostly of men of unscrupulous and unscrupulous character, who are perpetually engaged in the game of robbing the people and each other, while they shout for "national honor." This war has been the worst calamity that ever befell that country. It has not only cost her an immense amount of territory and money, but it has lowered her rating in the list of nations to one of waging mediocrities. Spain will never recover from the effects of her war with the United States.

Some of the soldiers and officers of the army seem to have a firm grip upon Uncle Sam's legend and their efforts, combined with others, threaten to extract it from its socket. Now that the chances for fighting have been growing less every day, many of the boys seem to have a fever of anxiety upon them that will not get to leave them. Fighting is the enemy. The boy's soul will be liable to a painful punishment for a shameful Spanish diet. Thousands of soldiers have been sent to Porto Rico that will never hear the sound of a gun, and they were pretty sure of this when they started. They merely waited a little "experience" and a small scrap of personal war history to hand down to posterity. Truly, this war has cost a lot of money and a large share of it will be credited to the item of pure fun.

An incident which would make those fellows who don't believe in advertising gap in astonishment, transpired a few days ago when the American Tobacco Company gave a New York advertising agency $75,000 to spend in newspaper advertising. Yes, the figures are correct—several hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and all to be expended in one year! Can't hardly believe it, can you? And do you suppose that the managers of this company would be so foolish as to throw this immense sum of money into a channel of which they had no knowledge? No, indeed, they were not, hardly. Fact is, every business enterprise which is set about nowadays, appropriates a certain sum—generally about one-third of its capital stock—to an advertising fund, which is considered an absolutely indispensable adjunct. Those who don't believe advertising pays should have a little talk with the managers of this department of almost all the big institutions of the country.

The return of W. G. Goffey Hunter to Kentucky is causing considerable apprehension and not a little disgust among the leading Republicans of the State. It is announced that he will arrive with his gunboats some time in September. It is an undisguised fact that the wily Doctor is loyally hated by a large contingent of the party under whose device he places the little cross at election times, and although he is considered a power of considerable magnitude in political circles, there are many of his co-workers in voting who would be glad to see him go. He will stand in God's judgment, and M. Jules Cambon, the French Ambassador, representing Spain. The President at once issued a proclamation directing hostilities between the two countries at an end. Orders were immediately sent to the naval and commercial services, advising them of the event and sending a stop to shipping. Gen. Miles at Porto Rico, Gen. Merritt at Manila and Gen. Shafter in Cuba were directed to suspend operations against the Spaniards and were informed that additional orders would follow. Rear Admiral Sampson was directed to lift the blockade of Cuba and Porto Rico and was given instructions as to the disposition of the war ships.

The terms of peace as set forth in the protocol, are contained in the synopsis as hereunto published, and are in full as follows.

SYNOPSIS OF THE PEACE AGREEMENT BY SPAIN AND PORTO RICO.

The creation of the United States of Porto Rico and other Spanish islands in the West Indies, between the Executive Ministers of Spain and the United States was brought to a close by the signing of a protocol by Secretary of State Day, representing the latter country, and M. Jules Cambon, the French Ambassador, representing Spain. The President at once issued a proclamation directing hostilities between the two countries at an end. Rear Admiral Sampson was directed to lift the blockade of Cuba and Porto Rico and was given instructions as to the disposition of the war ships.

The protocols were in duplicate and were exchanged in alternate columns in the English and French languages. The French text, being the cue to be presented to the Government of Spain, was read by the Spanish Ambassador. Upon the conclusion of these formalities the seals of the Secretary of State and of the French Ambassador were affixed by the Ambassador and Assistant Secretary of State.

CONGRATULATIONS EXCHANGED.

After the protocol had been signed and read by the Ambassador, the Ambassador followed the protocol with the Spanish Ambassador, the Secretary of State and others who witnessed the ceremony. Before the Ambassador and Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Adj. Gen. Gorham, who had been invited to be present, and joined in the felicitations. Besides the gentleman named, there were present the members of the Spanish delegation, the Spanish Minister, Private Secretary George B. Corliss and Assistant Secretary O. L. Prudom, all of whom were attached to the White House.

Mr. Corliss returned to the State Department bearing the American copy of the protocol, while M. Thiebaut bore the Spanish copy to the French Embassy. The former copy was handed to the Spanish Ambassador, and the President received it, expressing pleasure at the part played by M. Thiebaut in the peace negotiations. That this brilliant naval victory for the Americans should have resulted in anything so unpleasant and uneventful, is regretted by all. Surely, there were honors enough in this fight for all to have shared.

JUDGE B. L. D. GUFFY has been named by the Republican gubernatorial brevet quite lately of late, but not quite sufficient to blow him onto the track. It is thought by many of his friends that the Judge has attained to the acme of his happiness and ambition, and that he will have no further aspirations for political favoritism, and the public just saw the chicanery and took advantage of it. This is a grand and rich country and easily recovers from the effects of this war, but the finger-prints of some of her most bold-mouthed patriots will remain around the key-hole of her treasury door for many months to come.

Spain will never recover from the effects of her war with the United States.

Indeed it seems quite certain to any one acquainted with the party that the Spanish government, and the official immigrants for Governor, need have seen some apprehension, as it is said lightning never strikes twice in the same place, and the strange political upheaval that threw the Judge upon the Appellate bench in Kentucky was no doubt as much a surprise to that gentleman and his friends as it is to a cyclone that lifted and sat him unhurt into another county. The very fact that he was elected, stunned the Republicans more than the Democrats, who were not surprised it anything political from the other side, and were as well satisfied with the Judge as his friends, the enemy. Judge Guffey is the only man to be a candidate for Governor, but his political brethren have got his range and have also planted a few contact mines around him like little bombs.

A PITIFUL story of marriage in high life, desertion and separation was recited before a commission appointed to inquire into the sanity of Mrs. John C. Wilmerding, Jr., in New York, last week. "That woman is not very crazy," was the opinion of the examining physician, but simply a man of average intelligence.

FAMOUS BATTLES.

A COMPARISON OF LOSSES IN FORTRESS FIGHTS.

By the Side of Many American Examples the Light Brigade's Charge Was Not So Notable.

THE CIVIL WAR'S NOTABLE LOSSES.

(From the New York Press.)

No organization, either military or otherwise, has ever approached so closely to a Santiago as the First Minnesota on the second day of Gettysburg, 150 years ago. Hancock, to gain time and allow re-enforcements to come up, was ordered to attack the enemy's left, which reached his army, and a superior force of the enemy, who had to be repulsed by Col. Colville: "Do you see those colors? Take them!" Colonel Colville went in with 300 men and was repulsed, but captured and lost 174 wounded; none was missing. Seventeen officers were killed or wounded, among the latter being the Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, Major and Adjutant-General, all of whom were severely wounded, numbered 75 which was 28 per cent. of the whole number engaged. This proportion was not equalled by any other regiment in the entire war.

The Fifteenth New Jersey lost 116 killed and mortally wounded out of 415 at Spotsylvania, which was 26 per cent. of those engaged.

At the battle of Gold Harbor, the Twenty-fifth Massachusetts lost 74 killed or mortally wounded out of 310—24 per cent. The next day the regiment was again engaged at Gold Harbor, and lost 170 killed or wounded.

The One Hundred and Forty-fourth Pennsylvania lost 20 killed out of 1,084 at Gettysburg—2 per cent. Out of 109 were killed or wounded. This regiment had gone into Cleburne's corps, and lost 100 killed and 200 wounded.

DIXIE'S ZOTATERS.

Rev. George Hardiman, the Eliza Newell Minister, and his wife, Dr. Elizabeth Newell, 72, wounded, besides 68 mortally wounded, out of 470. His 127 killed was the largest number killed in any infantry regiment, and he was the only one who represented over half of that regiment. This is the record of what, at Gaines' Mills, where it lost 102 men, counted "fours" under fire and alone.

As a rule, the heavy artillery regiments did not have active service in the war until 1864, having been need the first three years in garrisoning the forts around Washington and at other points. They were not sent to the field to do real fighting, the result was entirely satisfactory to the men of the other arms of the service who had seen the hard work in the field.

The First Maine had 100 officers and men and met the rebels on Peleg's bridge on June 18, 1864, and lost 210 killed.

The proportion of the total number killed in a long-term regiment with the total number enrolled is likely to be misleading, because among all those enrolled are many non-combatants—officers, drivers, cooks, engineers, surgeons' assistants, quartermasters' men, and the sick, disabled and absentees. Nevertheless, in making such a comparison, we find that the average is about 10 per cent. of the total enrollment. It lost 259 men out of a total enrollment of 1,393 or 18.7 per cent.

In killed and wounded together, the loss of this regiment was 500. The Sixty-ninth New York lost 100 out of 390, or 25 per cent., were killed.

The One Hundred and twenty-ninth killed out of 397 enlisted, or 25 per cent.

AMONG THE SCORCHERS.

Besides the losses in the regular regiments in the Civil War, which depleted their ranks, enlistment in that war was not more popular in that year than it had been in 1861. The United States Infantry, with 100 men, lost 22 of them to Gettysburg, with only 93 men, but 22 of them, or 23 per cent., were killed.

CASTORIA.

By the Side of Many American Examples the Light Brigade at Balaklava, perhaps more than would be the case, had been successful, but the Light Brigade had been beaten.

The First Kentucky regiment, with 100 men, lost 672 men, or 67.2 per cent., killed, or 167 wounded, or 16.7 per cent.

Got the Drop On Him.

HARRISONBURG, Ky., Aug. 10.—W. R. Daniel, of Covington, walked into the office of the Daily Commonwealth yesterday and said facetiously: "I want my coat, I left it here in the Commonwealth. The proprietor replied: "I don't know anything about your coat left here in the Commonwealth." Daniel said: "I left it here in the Commonwealth, but I left it here in the Commonwealth."

Cato got the drop on him. They say he has been Cato lately not to believe him, indeed, the storekeepers will make him believe it.

Lack of Small Arms.

The time will never come again when the United States are without modern small arms in ample supply and smokeless powder cartridges to match.

There is an interesting story told by the author of "The War Department," that the time will never come again when the United States are without modern small arms in ample supply and smokeless powder cartridges to match.

In the first place, as previously stated in this correspondence, she came here by mistake, not catching the signal to open Cornhill, and having to wait until a definite order in telegraphic language was given to do so. The signal was given, and the door was opened.

The following will give our readers a clear account of the effects of being wounded with the dreaded Minie ball.

Let us take the First Minnesota, as an example. The last man on board the Alamo had no time in pulling out into the stream. Before daybreak a hospital boat came to the rescue, and the removal of troops from Newell's Ness would be stopped at once was it taken out to the pier the Alamo was under.

There is a big cut in the side of the Alamo, and the water is 10 feet deep. The gunboat is held up by the men who are on deck, and the gun is held up by the men who are on deck.
